If you're an artist, you probably have an opinion about Bob Ross, and I'm no exception to that. Personally, I think in his life he did a lot of good—most notably by encouraging 46 numbers of people to start painting, even if they'd been discouraged from doing art before. But there are a few problems with the Bob Ross Method which have kept me from being a 47 of what he taught. First of all, the way that Bob Ross teaches, most of his students' paintings end up looking just 48 his. This may be fine in the beginning, but all it does in the long run is encourage a 49 on Bob Ross. In other words, what happens when a truly dedicated “ Bob Ross Method ” painter wants to paint a scene that Bob never covered? Where do they go for help? There's really nowhere to go. They're stuck, because they were never taught how to 50 ideas for paintings on their own.

四、閱讀測驗【請依照段落上下文意，選出最適當的答案】

第一篇：

You're in the kitchen cooking chicken. After taste-testing the dish, you find it too bland, so you reach for the salt. But wait. Is salt the only seasoning that can add flavor to your meal? No! Herbs can be a great, healthy substitute for salt.

Why should you be concerned about your salt intake? The reason is because too much salt can lead to high blood pressure, and it can impact your cholesterol. So reduce your salt intake with herbs. They add flavor but don't raise your blood pressure. Since most people eat too much salt, the folks at Wellcat.com created the “ More Herbs, Less Salt Day ” on August 29th to encourage the eating of herbs. Late August is indeed an appropriate time to celebrate this special day. The harvest of garden herbs is at a peak. There's nothing better than fresh garden herbs in your favorite recipes.

But what exactly is an herb? It is the green or leafy part of a plant used to enhance the flavor of food. Some popular herbs in western cooking include parsley, basil, rosemary and cilantro. Dried herbs are popular in Asia, so you can find them at most supermarkets. On the other hand, the fresh herb selection is more limited. Since fresh herbs have better flavor, try an international store to find some. Make sure the herbs look clean and have no bruises. Remember, fresh herbs taste best when used immediately, so don't buy too much at one time. If you can't use all of your herbs at once, dry the rest by hanging them upside down out of direct sunlight. You'll know they're dry when they easily crumble.

How can you start using herbs? You can use cilantro and thyme to enhance the flavor of noodle dishes. For an Italian flare, sprinkle some oregano and basil on your next pork or chicken dish. Reducing your salt consumption doesn't have to mean tasteless meals. Experiment with herbs to discover a whole new world of flavors!

With more than fifty percent of the world's people living in big cities, the problem of overpopulation is becoming a major concern. The International Council of Societies of Industrial Design (Icsid) promotes industrial design as the answer to many urban problems. Icsid began the World Design Capital program in 2008. The program is held every two years to honor metropolitan areas that have successfully used design as a tool to improve the lives of city residents. In 2013, Taipei was chosen to be the host city for this event in 2016. Taipei's plan to focus on sustainability with a balance between innovation and respect for nature impressed Icsid. This is what allows Taipei to be recognized as a true design leader.

Taipei is truly a city driven by design. The officials chose the slogan “ Adaptive City –Design in Motion ” and devoted themselves to the preparation for the event. Planners considered how to deal with limited resources and how design could help bring citizens a better quality of life. They also thought about ways to create a forward-looking city.

In the end, sixteen projects were selected, and one by one, they have been presented to the public since 2013. One project uses smart technology to improve bus shelters, bus stops and traffic signals. In another, designers are working to make neighborhoods more attractive with creative store signs. Also, a city-wide, people-oriented walking system is being developed. What's better, a “ health and happiness park ” provides many resources for senior citizens in the Taipei Expo Park.

This year, we will see more design inspirations pop up all over Taipei. Taipei will prove that it is indeed qualified for the title “ World Design Capital. ”
