四、閱讀測驗【請在下列各題中選出最適當的答案】

A 3,400-year-old image of a person dancing—discovered in the Middle East—is proof that we, the inhabitants of Earth, have been dancing for a very long time. From the first kick of a baby's foot to a wedding dance, dancing is a part of our lives. Just the beat of our own heart can provide the rhythm for dancing, or we can dance to the sounds of a full orchestra. So, what is this thing called dance? According to Judith Jamison, a skilled practitioner of the art of the dance and artistic director of the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater, “It is as close to God as you are going to get without words.”

One frequently-asked question about dancing is: why do people like to dance? The answers vary from person to person. When we dance, we express love, hate, joy, and sorrow. We celebrate birth, death, and everything in between. We dance not only for serious reasons, but for frivolous reasons too. We dance in prosperous times to celebrate good fortune, but we do likewise in hard times: out of sadness, to attain peace, and, sometimes in an attempt to heal.

“I remember a couple,” says Lester Hillier, owner of a dance studio in Davenport, Iowa. “One of their sons had been killed. The grieving parents had a dance lesson scheduled the day after it happened. They insisted on coming anyway.” They practiced the steps they had learned. As the hour passed, the couple asked for one last dance. And when it ended, the wife rested her head on her husband's chest; he wrapped his arms around her shoulders. "If we just sat at home, what would we do?"
